

iVision Tech to issue two minibonds totalling EUR 7m to help fund acquisition strategy (translated)

20 May 2024 | 14:50 CEST

iVision Tech [BIT:IVN], an Italian manufacturer of spectacles and spectacle frames, is to issue two minibonds totalling EUR 7m to help fund its acquisition strategy, Italian-language news portal BeBeez reported, citing CEO Stefano Fulchir.

The report said that placement of the bonds is expected to complete in June.

The report said that the bonds will also be used to expand in new foreign markets and to complete the group's product range.

As reported by this news service, Fulchir in December 2023 said that iVision Tech is looking at potential takeover candidates and could aim to close a deal in 2024.

The article noted that iVision Tech acquired Henry Jullien, a private French eyewear company, in September 2023 and an eyewear production site near Udine from Italian eyewear group Safilo [BIT: SFL] in 2021.
